

Hereditary changes can cause the development of tumours. (1)---- genetic mutations can lead to the formation of cancerous cells, hereditary factors can contribute to an individual's susceptibility to tumours. (2)---- genetic predisposition can increase the risk of developing certain types of cancer, it is crucial to understand the underlying genetic factors. (3)----, it's important to note that hereditary changes alone may not be the sole cause of tumour formation.

1. A) Unless B) Just as C) Although
2. A) Since B) As if C) In case
3. A) In addition B) Thus C) Yet

angora
inEnglish

2.5

angora
inEnglish