

The COVID-19 pandemic shook the world (1) to / at its roots and (2) thus / as expected, this affected the supply of goods and services. Production of most goods halted (3) so / as people couldn't go to work. After a while, social distancing protocols allowed for the (4) resumption / termination of production. (5) However, / Therefore, even after things went back to normal, some products became less relevant and/or less available. Worldwide, there are products that are low (6) in / for supply and may become (7) accurately / completely unavailable in the coming years. Even very important products (8) are becoming / have become less and less accessible. Soon, we might only see these products (9) in / on pictures or as souvenirs.